

BASSANO HONORS KING'S MEMORY

Many Attend Memorial Services in Presbyterian Church. Appropriate Sermon by Rev. W. H. Anderson.

The announcement of the death of King Edward, which was received here on Saturday, brought forth many expressions of deep regret from all who heard it. The death of the monarch spoken of as a diplomat of extraordinary capacity and a statesman of great truthfulness, too, that he had done more to maintain the peace of Europe throughout his reign than any of the other crowned heads of that continent. The fact that he was a brave and brave, earnest man in his own right, and that he had succeeded in the throne of a not a few enemies on his character in this regard. His well known charity, his gentleness and his consideration for others had earned much deserved praise. "It was not because he feared war that he loved peace," said one who knew him well, "but because he loved his country." For the reason that the condition of the empire generally had led him to the conviction that peace was most conducive to the general good of the people of the empire and of mankind generally. "One of the greatest men of the time when King Edward was crowned to the throne," said another, "and it will be hard to find this like in all that was good, all that was great, and in all that went for the uplifting of mankind."

Flagstaffs were scarce, but several were improvised on the spur of the moment and in a short time after the news of the King's death a number of flags were to be seen floating at half mast out of regard and respect for his memory. Memorial services were held on Sunday evening in Prince's hall under the auspices of the Presbyterian church, which were so well attended that the place was crowded. After a suitable song service by the choir and congregation, Rev. W. H. Anderson, D. D., preached an eloquent and fervent sermon, taking his text from the 12th verse of the 20th Psalm, which reads: "We teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts with wisdom." Mr. Anderson said that the people all over the great British empire were sincerely mourning the death of King Edward. He showed the great extent of the empire, who that day were to pay their last respects to their beloved king. He carried his audience in imagination with him through Canada with its vast areas, the British Isles, with their teeming population

(and energetic peoples; to Malta, to Egypt, to South Africa, to India, to the British Empire, to Australia, Hong Kong and other places where British rule has been the rule of the greatest empire that has been. The local population of these several countries, located in many climes and with different religions, were today holding memorial services in which his memory was revered and career lauded, similar to the one in which they were participating.

Mr. Anderson compared the Assyrians, the Greeks and the Roman empires with the British empire and declared that these ancient and once powerful nations made conquests and governed those whom they defeated in war for selfish purposes for the glory of tribute on them to be used in purchasing necessities and luxuries for themselves. They governed with force, maintaining garrisons of soldiers in order to enforce their rule and to maintain their empire. This was directly opposite to the policy of the British government, as carried out by King Edward. The British empire was an entirely new evolution in history, method and the other colonies had complete autonomy and the British method of governing them was for their good and not for the purpose of forcing tribute from them. This was one of the reasons why the mourning for the death of King Edward was so sincere and so universal all over the British empire.

He spoke in conclusion upon the suddenness of the event. A week ago no one thought of such an event as the death of the King, and now we were to mourn for his death and to pay the last tribute of respect to his memory. Life is short and time is fleeting and for any one may come the great dream sometime at any moment. In the words of the Psalmist, "We teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts with wisdom." Mr. Anderson said that the people all over the great British empire were sincerely mourning the death of King Edward. He showed the great extent of the empire, who that day were to pay their last respects to their beloved king. He carried his audience in imagination with him through Canada with its vast areas, the British Isles, with their teeming population

REAL ESTATE ACTIVE

Four Lots Sell For Four Thousand—One for One Thousand
The real estate market continues active, and there is considerable activity and much inquiry for both business and residential property. In the limit of the capacity of the room, and should there be more, it is probable. The directors have refused admittance until a larger school, perhaps an additional teacher, is provided. The directors have under contemplation the erection of a commodious school of several rooms and a staff of teachers, as it is believed by them that by the time the building will occupy several rooms, there will be enough scholars to fill it. The scholars attending the school now range from little tots who are spending their first days in school to those who have passed through the grammar grades and are now completing to take up the high school course. It is early perhaps to talk of a high school, but it looks as though within a year or two one will have to be provided. Dr. Dawson is proving himself to be a very efficient teacher.

SCHOOL IS NOW OPEN

It Was Filled to the Limit of Its Capacity the First Day
Dr. M. P. Dawson opened the school on Monday with 39 scholars, 14 of whom were girls and 14 boys. The school is now open, and the directors have refused admittance until a larger school, perhaps an additional teacher, is provided. CONTRACTS FOR SIDEWALKS

Riverside Lumber Co. to Furnish Material and E. Kellogg Labor
The Riverside Lumber Co. secured the contract for furnishing the lumber for the sidewalks which are to be laid under the direction of the city council. The contract was directly awarded the contract for doing the work. The consideration was about $1,400. A total of 10 1/2 feet of walks in the city of Bassano will be laid on the west side of block 3, and on the east side of block 3, and on the north side of block 3, and on the south side of block 3. This is a total of 10 1/2 feet of walks in the city of Bassano.

ANOTHER STEAM OUTFIT

Messrs. Wood & Son in Receipt of 20 H. P. American-Abel Engine
Messrs. D. A. Wood and son recently received a second-hand American-Abel traction engine from Calgary a few days since. They ordered a new 20 horse power engine, but as the delivery could not be made till August the machinery from Calgary from whom they ordered sent the 20 horse power machine to be used by them till the new one arrives from the factory in the east. This engine received will be attached to ten plows and will at first be utilized to do some contract clearing in the vicinity of this city. Later on it will be taken to some other place where it is needed, and this will be broken up with the outfit.

CARLSTADT IS MOVING

Many Steam Pines Operating in Its Vicinity
Mr. B. Hoff, one of the salesmen of the Canadian Pacific Irrigation Co., is on a visit to the local country. He is here to see the land that Carlstadt is growing rapidly and that there is considerable building in progress. James Bassard, who completed an hotel there of 30 rooms, has just completed a new hotel of 30 rooms. There are 10 to 12 steam plow outfits now at work in the immediate vicinity of Carlstadt, and several more that have been ordered. One syndicate purchased 20 sections of the lot and will have steam plows at work breaking up this tract with such a number of steam outfits operating, will be large.

OUR AMATEUR TALENT

Local Residents Will Produce the Comedy-Drama "Oak Farm"
The Bassano Amateur Dramatic Association will, in about six weeks, produce "Oak Farm," a comedy drama of three acts from the pen of Anthony Wells. There are eleven characters in the play and they will all be enacted by local amateurs some of whom have trod the boards of the stage in similar productions in other parts. W. B. Stevens, for instance, played one of the parts in "Oak Farm" in the east some time since and for this reason he has been chosen for stage manager and will not only direct the production, but will also be in the cast. The proceeds are to be donated to the local Ladies' Aid society.

BOARD OF TRADE DISCUSS LOT DEAL

They Criticise Council for Its Recent Acquisition of Realty for a Fire and Town Hall. Other Matters Receive Attention.

The board of trade held a meeting on Tuesday evening in Prince's hall with H. Bushington in the chair and four hall by the city council was discussed at length. It was decided that the C. P. R. to widen the road to platform, and to request the traffic manager of this division of district to furnish better facilities for the handling of freight here.

The recent purchase of a lot by the council for a site for a fire hall for the sum of $1,500 was brought up and was discussed at length. Chairman Bushington said there had been considerable talk concerning this transaction on the streets, and he thought it was better to discuss the matter in open meeting than elsewhere. He called on the members of the board for expression of opinion on the matter. Mr. A. Young said that the council had purchased a lot on a back street for $1,500 and he would like to hear something concerning it. It seemed strange that they objected to the sale, made under the law, against fire protection, and yet were able to pay $1,500 for a lot.

Chairman Bushington asked Councilman Berry if he would explain to the assembly the deal under discussion. Mr. Berry in reply stated that Mr. Johnson was not to be given a commission by the council. He was the agent of the English church, the owner of the lot was to be received in steam plows from them. George Purvis asked Mr. Berry if he was aware that Mr. Johnson was making money out of the deal; that we had a thirty day option for the lot from the church authorities, which began on April 20th. Was it right that Mr. Johnson should make money out of a deal of this kind? he asked. He thought in making a purchase of this character that it should have been looked into more thoroughly by the council.

Mr. Berry replied that at the time it was decided to make the purchase, he did not know that Mr. Johnson was to make anything out of the deal. Mr. Purvis said that each councilman in making a deal that was illegal incurred personal liability. Mr. Berry defended the transaction declaring that the lot was centrally located and the "hot corner" of the town that could be procured. "We made and executed the motion for the purchase of the lot," said Mr. Hawkins, and Mr. Berry replied that the motion was made by W. B. Playfair and seconded by him.

Chairman Bushington asked if Mr. Berry would like to buy over the matter as the purchase of a lot by the council, and it was decided that it should be given proper consideration and Berry replied that it was not necessary.

Chairman Bushington asked what the amount was that the village could borrow and Mr. Berry replied $2,000. Mr. Bushington inquired of Mr. Berry how the council could pay $1,500 for a lot and at the same time the other expenses of the city, and Mr. Berry said that the council had purchased a lot for $1,500, but the third of the purchase price was to be paid in cash, and the balance, it was arranged, could be paid later.

Mr. Bushington said he had heard that the lot was listed with the real estate agents for $1,500, and Mr. Berry replied that the lot purchased had been in the hands of the real estate agents for $1,500, but the value of really kept rising, it was taken out of the hands of the real estate agents and listed with Mr. Johnson for $1,500.

Chairman Bushington asked if it was not illegal for the council to purchase real estate in the manner in which the council had bought this lot. Mr. Berry in answering stated that the council acted within its legal rights in buying the lot. The council was dealing directly with the agent, and the real estate agent was not with Mr. Johnson. The board of trade should cause Councilman Johnson to appear before it so that he might explain his connection with the deal. Mayor Playfair and himself at the time the purchase was made had no knowledge of Mr. Johnson's interest in the matter.

The "only thing to do," said Mr. Berry, is to bring Mr. Johnson before the board and let him give his explanation."

"Does this board consider this a 'wise purchase'?" asked Mr. Purvis, and the chairman said that the matter was before the board for discussion and that they could decide that question at a later date.

The board of trade, said Mr. Hawkins, should have the price of the lot in the price paid by the council was right.

Mr. Purvis said that he could get a lot on a block in second avenue for $1,500.

A. Young-Corner Hotel
Mr. Berry replied that the western corner could not be purchased for the price named, but that a corner could be obtained for $1,500.

Mr. Berry contended that the lot purchased by the council was cheap at the figure given for it.

George Purvis asked how the matter of the purchase of the lot was named up, and Mr. Berry replied that the question of fire protection came up, and it was decided that a fire hall in which to place the mechanical engine which it is proposed to purchase, it was needed for a fire hall, and very naturally suggested.

THE KING DIES PEACEFULLY

Intelligence that the End Had Come Was Not a Surprise; Death Being Expected at Any Hour—Capital Receives News Without Excitement, but Sadly—Prince of Wales Succeeds to the Crown.

London—King Edward VII., who returned to England from a vacation in a few days in the last of health, died at 11:40 p.m. on May 6, in the presence of his wife, the Queen, who was less than a week, but was seriously ill more than ten days.

The Prince of Wales succeeded to the crown immediately, according to the laws of the kingdom, without official ceremony. His first official act was to dispatch to the Lord Mayor the announcement of his father's death, in presence of members of the royal family.

The physicians soon afterwards issued their official bulletin.

Practically, following his death, it is believed to have been the cause of death, but the doctors thus far have refused to make a statement. Some of the King's friends are convinced that worry over the critical political situation, which combined with his sleepless nights, aggravated it.

His death, the fatal illness. Besides the King's relatives in England, the Duke of York and the Archbishop of Canterbury were in the death chamber.

The intelligence that the end of King Edward's reign had come was not a surprise at the last. The people had been expecting it for some time, and the death of the King was expected at any hour.

The capital received it without excitement, but sadly. The King with his own people was undoubtedly the most popular ruler in the world. They regarded him as the strongest force making for the stability of the peace and unity of the empire.

Within a few minutes after the death of the King the home office was telegraphing the intelligence to the heads of other governments and the British diplomatic corps was on its way throughout the world.

One of the last words attributed to King Edward was: "Well, it's all over, but I think I have done my duty." He seemed then to have reached to a full realization that his work was fast approaching its end.

The Queen and others of the royal family and several doctors had been in the sick room throughout the death of the King. He died in a condition, but he rallied slightly between nine and ten o'clock and then appeared to have recognized his family.

He then layed down and died peacefully, which ended in his passing.

The body of the King will lie in state in the King's chamber in the north wing of Buckingham Palace, which is brilliantly lighted.

ed, while the rest of the great gloomy building, with the exception of Lord Knolly's office, is entirely darkened. It was nearly half an hour after the King breathed his last, and Lord Knolly walked into the office and found the waiting reporters: "Gentlemen, his Majesty is dead."

The people outside the palace only learned the news when heard of the death of the King. The Prince and Princess of Wales had taken leave of the other members of the royal family at the main entrance from early midnight.

Princess Victoria, who is her mother's constant companion, remained with the Queen. The others of the family followed the Prince and Princess of Wales.

The proposed railway will run past the Bradford coal mines and on to Melton Hill.

It will give transportation facilities to a big new country that is rapidly filling up with farmers and which has coal in tremendous quantities.

WATERWAYS TRUST

Washington—Secretary Knox and his staff have been engaged in a long and arduous task of reorganization of the international waterways.

The provisions of the treaty establish a tribunal of arbitration between this country and Canada by which and which concern only the two countries may be settled by their own representatives without resort to outside intervention.

The treaty is to remain in force five years and thereafter will terminate upon twelve months written notice given by either government.

APPOINT BOARD OF CONCILIATION

Ottawa—A board of conciliation investigation under the Industrial Disputes Act has been established to deal with the differences which have arisen between the Grand Trunk Pacific railway company and its employees.

Judge McTibben, county judge of Ont., is chairman of the board, while Donald Ross, of Barrie, represents the company, and W. T. J. Lee, of Toronto, the men.

The board, it is expected, will meet in a few days without delay, probably at Winnipeg.

CAREER OF THE NEW KING

Described as Less Democratic Than His Father—Began His Career as Cadet in the Royal Navy at Age of 12 Years, and Received Rank of Commander in 1891—King is Now Almost 45 Years of Age.

His Majesty, George V., by the grace of God, King of Great Britain, Ireland, and of the British Dominions beyond the seas, Emperor of India, was born at Marlborough House, London, a stone's throw from Buckingham Palace, on June 3, 1862, and was the second son of the late King Edward VII., who, at that period, was Prince of Wales. He began his career as a cadet of the Royal Navy on board the training ship, HMS Britannia, when 15 years of age. In 1877, at the age of 15, he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant.

In 1880 the Prince of Wales left England in company with his consort for an extensive tour through India, which was fraught with the most beneficial results for a political point of view, as a means of introducing the native chiefs and princes of Hindustan to their future sovereign, the future Emperor of India.

In celebration of his safe return from the tour around the world, he was entertained by the London corporation of the Guild hall on December 2, 1880, on which occasion he delivered his first public address. He was then knighted, and when he was 18 years of age, and in 1880 he was promoted to the rank of captain.

On this occasion he said that the duty of governing India would be made easier if we could put India into it a wider element of sympathy. His Indian trip was generally regarded as not a success from a political point of view, as he was unable to attend the celebration at Quebec.

The prince is less democratic than his father, and does not have such an ardent love for sports. It is generally supposed, therefore, that after his accession to the throne, he will be less democratic than his father, and that he will be less democratic than his father.

His six children are Edward Albert, Albert Frederick, Victoria Alexandra, George, and John Charles, and one daughter.

Edward Earl Grey Formally
Ottawa—The parliament of Canada adjourned for the summer holidays, and a formal farewell to Earl Grey as governor-general. However, it is not likely that his excellency will return to England before next October, but he will be accompanied by his wife during the coming summer.

The House was well filled with senators, members of the commons, their wives and lady friends, while the galleries were crowded with the public.

Earl Grey was evidently moved by the members of parliament, who were present in large numbers, and by the members of the commons, who were present in large numbers.

He thanked Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Borden, Sir Richard Cartwright, and Senator Levesque, for the kind words which they had addressed to him.

Bring Their Men to Settle in the West
Nelson, B.C.—Two thousand men will be brought to the interior of British Columbia by the mountain railway companies from the lumber districts of Ontario, Quebec, and New Brunswick. Their families will come later and all are expected to become permanent residents of Kootenay.

This had been decided at an important conference with Earl Kitchener, and all are expected to become permanent residents of Kootenay.

MANY VIEWS OF CANADA

London Post Thinks British Farmers Should Urge to Tax Colonial Wheat

London—The Morning Post objects to the interests of Canadian wheat, for free importation of colonial wheat, which may ultimately mean the loss of two million pounds to the revenue, says if the farmers' organizations would only concentrate, they would not prove strong enough to get their own way but by asserting their claims that they be recognized as equitable by self-governing dominions, each of which has adopted similar policy of drawing revenue from British as well as foreign imports.

The Daily Mail, agent Laurier's remarks on the choice of a victory, say coming from a statesman of French descent and great experience these reflections are flattering to our national pride and any departure from present practice would be productive of harm. The Standard describes the same at Ottawa as reasonable and moving.

The Daily Standard criticizes Canadian borrowing methods, making the point that the fact that Canada has continued unrepentant popularity of Canadian municipal loans with British investors, even if at times some concessions have to be given as regards price of loans and interest in place of taking advantage of loans contracted by the government, which might arise if a loan were put up for public tender.

The Times says Laurier's insight is equal to his great experience and he never excelled in clearness of vision and felicity of phrase, passages which he recently outlined the relations between the British government and systems of national self-government where they were sent to provide. Laurier speaks on all constitutional questions with something of the fervor and imagination of Gladstone.

WAR RIVALS ARE NOW AT PEACE

Tokio—An early announcement of the Japanese government has been made, greatly affecting the far east in confidence. The conviction prevails that negotiations for peace have been opened, and will be published about the middle of this month.

Well informed Japanese picture the convention in the nature of an alliance providing for complete Japanese co-operation with regard to China, with definite understanding regarding their domination, respectively in their Manchurian and Mongolian spheres of influence.

Coincident with the publication of this convention is the announcement of Japan's annexation of Korea. Tokyo advises that the ultimatum of Japan's guarantee of Korea's independence has been officially determined and will soon be proclaimed to the world.
